

From the Desk of Ian D Scofield

Client requested an article on a website that they are creating. My turn around time was 3 days. This article was done with very little information being available about this specific program.

Title: The Benefits of A Tech Prep Program

Time To Delivery: 3 Days

Date Delivered: 20 June 2015

Word Count: 587

Tech Prep style programs are not the standard for schools around the country but they offer a lot of benefits that your standard school cannot rival. In fact there are very few things that a regular education will do better than a tech prep program. Here is a list of some of the major benefits of a tech prep program.

Thorough Education

Tech Prep is a program that is designed to educate students on multiple levels. They start out with a high school education and from there it moves on to receiving an associate's degree. While this is going on they are also experiencing hands on and industry training. Very few programs set students up to get so much education and training in only two years.

Ready To Go Further

One of the requirements to getting a bachelor's degree is to have a high school diploma, with Tech Prep all of our graduates have this so they are already in a good place to go further. The addition of an associate's degree also puts them a step further, in most cases the associate's degree will serve as some of the credits required for their bachelor's degree. Having the hands on and industry training also gives students something to talk about in admission letters. Further, if they can't afford to pay for their bachelor's degree they will be in the perfect position to take on a job to support their degree.

No Repeat Classes

Tech Prep has a focused curriculum and because we realize that repetitive classes add extra, unneeded time to a degree we have done away with them. The lack of repeat classes is a big motivator for many people.

Trained Staff and Educators

The staff and educators that are part of the Tech Prep Programs across the nation are selected because of their exceptional training and education. We believe that competency changes over time and people always having something to learn, that is why we provide funds for our teachers to go to continuing education classes and seminars to keep them at the top of their game.

Ready To Enter The Workforce

Because Tech Prep students have a very strong education that is partnered with hands on and industry specific training they are ready to enter a very competitive workforce. Not just that, the education is wide and also helps to train students to adapt to changes that may happen in the workforce. Not only do graduates of a Tech Prep program have a high school diploma but they have an associate's degree too. This makes them more attractive than the average applicant.

Non-Traditional Students Fit In

Non-traditional students fit in perfectly at Tech Prep. We do our best to incorporate every one of our students into our program. The variety of learning experiences and the cutting of repetitive classes give non-traditional students a bigger motivator to do well in class. It also gives them a variety of classes that they care about to focus on. Whenever you introduce aspects that someone likes or cares about students pay more attention.

Tech Prep programs are the way of the future. They allow students to do more and learn more with their lives. There are very few students who wouldn't do well in a Tech Prep program because of its versatility and diversity. Talk to your kid today about signing them up for East Valley Tech Prep or another Tech Prep Program. All they can do from there is succeed.